Department of Applied Psychology is headed by Dr. Fazaila Sabih, clinical psychologist with extensive research teaching and practical experience.

Both the programs are fully equipped with competent faculty, advance classrooms & labs.

RIPHAH WISH CAMPUS

(Females only)

Riphah International University is essentially a mission oriented institution. It will be too naive to dismiss it as yet another addition to the existing ones in the country. Far from this, it is intended to produce women, who constitute half of the total population of this country, with quality education imbued with the spirit of Islam.

In Pakistan there are only a few good schools of higher learning for women. Many families do not feel comfortable in sending their daughters to co-ed institutions. As a result, a good number of talented women are deprived of opportunities to attain intellectual and academic excellence. The WISH Campus of Riphah International University offers its services to such students. It is a model institution of higher learning for females.

The WISH campus is situated in the educational sector of H-8, Islamabad. It provides safe and secure environment for female-students. Riphah is committed to encourage and provide state-of-the-art tools for intellectual development to the diverse community of female-students so that they can meet the challenges of the future through a balanced and progressive education.

Introduction

There is a long tradition of the study of English Literature in the Indo-Pak subcontinent. Nevertheless, it must be admitted that it has some pitfalls. We cannot separate literature from its culture and values of life. This being so, the impressionable mind is likely to be infected with the baneful philosophy of the west. To counter this, the teaching program is so organized that the teachers, whenever they come across anything repugnant to our values, present Islamic perspective as well and thus show how spurious the western philosophical precepts are. Another distinctive feature of this department is that we have introduced "Remedial English Language Programme" (RELP), the purpose of which is to develop the writing skill of students and how to write the answers of literature.

The department has undertaken an additional responsibility on itself for the benefit of students with no additional fee for this. It must be realized that most of the students fail because of their poor language competence. No university in Pakistan has taken any initiative in this direction. It is mandatory for students joining this department to undergo intensive remedial English language program to be arranged by the department.

English Linguistics & Literature has a wide scope. After completing their degree, the students may enter the teaching profession, go to journalism, compete in CSS and PCS examinations. Moreover, the students having strong grip on English Language have more other avenues of employment.

BS ENGLISH (LINGUISTICS & LITERATURE)

This four year program of BS in English has been carefully designed to achieve the following objectives at the time of completion of degree:

1. To provide a comprehensive introduction to the study of Linguistics as well as British and American literature, the various genres and their characteristics, to our students.
2. To acquaint the students with the role of literature and language in society.
3. To make the students understand how language and literature reflect the spirit of times.
4. To introduce students to the relationship between literature, language, culture and society.
5. To enable students to evaluate literary works in the light of various critical theories.
6. To equip the students with a sound analytical knowledge of constructing correct and meaningful sentences in spoken and written English.
7. To train students in the four skills of language: listening, speaking, reading and writing so that they can be good subject teachers if they desire to pursue a career in teaching.
8. To enable the students to critically analyze diverse Western schools of thought.
9. To make the students learn different techniques of research and documentation so that they are prepared to pursue higher studies in English Language or literature.
10. To motivate the students to contribute positively to society as responsible citizens and good Muslims.

Introduction

Applied psychology is the use of psychological methods and findings of scientific psychology to solve practical problems of human and animal behavior and experience. Mental health, organizational psychology, business management, education, health, product design, ergonomics, and law are just a few of the areas that have been influenced by the application of psychological principles and findings. Some of the areas of applied psychology include clinical psychology, counseling psychology, evolutionary psychology, industrial and organizational psychology, legal psychology, neuropsychology, occupational health psychology, human factors, forensic psychology, engineering psychology, school psychology, sports psychology, traffic psychology, community psychology, medical psychology. In addition, a number of specialized areas in the general field of psychology have applied branches (e.g., applied social psychology, applied cognitive psychology).

However, the lines between sub-branch specializations and major applied psychology categories are often blurred. For example, a human factors psychologist might use a cognitive psychology theory. This could be described as human factor psychology or as applied cognitive psychology.

At Riphah International University, MSc Applied Psychology is specifically designed Program, that deals with the major fields of psychology with Special focus on clinical psychology.
